Fiji

The Location

Fiji is an island nation in the South Pacific Ocean, east of Vanuatu, west of Tonga and south of Tuvalu. Known as the “soft coral capital of the world, prime diving areas abound all through this country of over 300 islands. Fed by nutrient rich waters of the Tonga Trench, the islands have an amazing reef eco-system noted for its complex nature: hard and soft coral, sea fans, dense schools of fish and even large pelagics. Fiji’s cultural presence is also strong through the country and exists in perfect harmony with its nature!
